Binky says: "Act Your Age!"

AN EXCITING BASEBALL GAME...

... HAS A DISASTROUS CLIMAX...

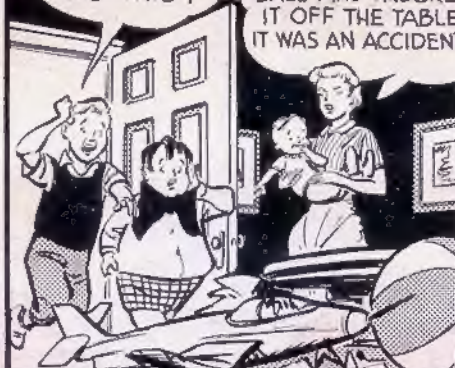

LATER...

GOSH, BILLY, MAYBE YOU SHOULDN'T HAVE CRASHED THROUGH AFTER THAT BALL! I BET MR. JONES WORKED A LONG TIME ON HIS GARDEN, 'N NOW IT'S SPOILED!

AW, FORGET IT, ALLERGY... SAY, WHY DON'T YOU STOP AT MY HOUSE AND SEE THE LATEST MODEL PLANE I'M WORKING ON? IT'S KEEN!

MY AIRPLANE MODEL-- IT'S BROKEN! WHO DID THIS?

OH, BILLY, IT'S TOO BAD. THE BABY THREW HIS BALL AND KNOCKED IT OFF THE TABLE. IT WAS AN ACCIDENT.

IT'S TOUGH, BILLY, BUT I GUESS THE BABY'S TOO LITTLE YET TO STOP AND THINK. MAYBE I CAN HELP YOU FIX IT UP!

THANKS, ALLERGY. BUT FIRST, LET'S PAY MR. JONES A VISIT. I UNDERSTAND BETTER NOW HOW HE MUST FEEL.

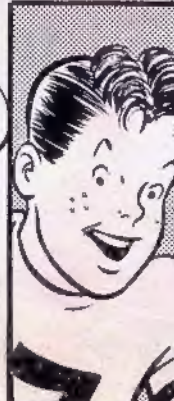

DON'T THANK US, MR. JONES. IT'S THE LEAST WE COULD DO. WE'RE OLD ENOUGH TO STOP AND THINK.

YEAH--THAT'S ONE OF THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN BABIES AND US KIDS WHO ARE MORE GROWN UP.

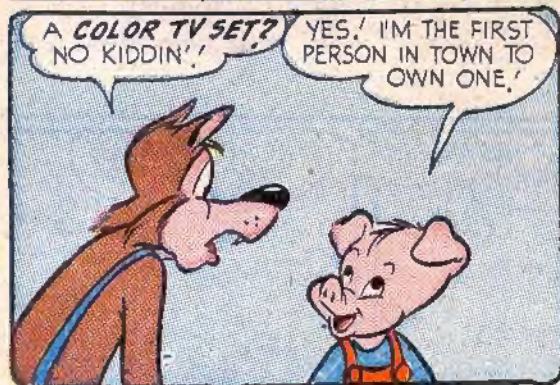

LEARNING TO BE THOUGHTFUL AND NOT CAUSE OTHERS EXTRA WORK AND WORRY IS A SURE SIGN OF GROWING UP! SO TAKE A TIP FROM BILLY AND ALLERGY!

PLACE A HAT ON A GLASS; THEN DROP A PENNY INTO THE HAT. THE PENNY APPARENTLY GOES THROUGH THE HAT AND INTO THE GLASS, FOR YOU SHOW THAT THE HAT IS EMPTY! SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE? WELL, IT'S QUITE EASY WHEN YOU KNOW THE SECRET!

SECRET

USE TWO PENNIES. PLACE ONE OUT OF SIGHT ON THE EDGE OF THE GLASS UNDER THE HAT. WHEN YOU DROP THE OTHER COIN INTO THE HAT, IT UPSETS THE BALANCE OF THE HIDDEN COIN, CAUSING IT TO DROP INTO THE GLASS...

THEN QUICKLY SLIDE THE COIN WHICH IS IN THE HAT UNDER THE INSIDE BAND, SO THAT YOU CAN SHOW THE HAT IS EMPTY!

The HELPLESS HIPPO

"HO-HUMMMMMM!" yawned the fattest animal in the whole zoo. His name was Hellespont Hippo, and he was a hippopotamus, with the biggest, fattest body you can imagine! And, to match it, the biggest, widest mouth! Why, when Hellespont opened his mouth to yawn "HO-HUMMMMM!"—his mouth looked like a giant cavern!

When Hellespont had been born several years before, he wasn't fat at all. He had been an ordinary little baby hippo. His mommy had cooed tenderly, "Oh, my sweet, little Hellespont, is there anywhere a prettier little baby than you?"

But then his awful appetite began to get the upper hand. Mornings, he ate. Afternoons, he ate. Evenings, he ate. And every night, all night long he would nibble away on something during his sleep! By the time he'd grown up he was fat as a dirigible, but not nearly as elegant as a dirigible, and certainly not anywhere near as useful.

The reason that the hippopotamus was of no use to anyone in the zoo was this: he couldn't move! He had gotten so fat and so bulky, that his legs would no longer support his weight! He just lay around in his crumb-littered cage, too full of food to get up and too lazy to get up even if he could.

The zoo manager realized that something had to be done. So did all the other animals. Hellespont Hippo was definitely a disgrace to them all. So the zoo manager and the animals got together at a meeting to discuss it.

"I have an idea," offered Edgar Elephant. "Put him on a strict diet!"

"That's no good," said the zoo manager. "He's so food-crazy he'd probably start eating the bars of his cage!"

"How about appealing to his vanity?" suggested the hyena. "We could line his cage with mirrors all around, so that he would have to lie and look at himself all day long. Eventually he would get so fed up—whoops!—I mean so disgusted with himself he'd decide to do something about it!"

"That's a good attempt," said the zoo manager, "but I'm afraid it wouldn't work. Hellespont has no vanity left to appeal to. He's not interested in how he looks, he's just interested in how he feels. No, the only thing Hellespont has an eye for these days is FOOD!"

It was then that Marilyn Monkey spoke up. "I have a plan," she said. "It may sound silly, but it may work . . ."

"What is it? What is it?" cried all the animals at once.

"Well, my view of the matter," said Marilyn, "is that the only way to cure Hellespont of overeating is with food!"

"With food—?!" echoed everybody.

"That's right," said Marilyn. "Hellespont has eaten so much and grown so fat that he can't move—right? Well, the only thing to do is to get him moving somehow—and what is the only thing in the world that can make Hellespont move? Food, of course! Now, here's my plan . . ."

All the animals listened closely as Marilyn Monkey explained it, nodding and agreeing that it might work.

The next day the hippopotamus lay in his cage yawning "Ho-hummmm!" and wondering where on earth his breakfast was. It should have been here by now, thought Hellespont. He waited and waited, but his breakfast never came. Neither did his lunch nor his supper. The same thing happened the next day. Hellespont was becoming desperate. Finally he decided he'd simply have to nibble on something, even if it were the bars of his cage! But just as he was about to lean over and take a bite of them, into his cage hopped Marilyn Monkey with a big tray of food.

"Yummy, yummy!" said Hellespont, eyeing the food greedily. He tried to move toward Marilyn Monkey and the tray of food, but he couldn't move one inch! He was just too fat!

Marilyn Monkey, for her part, made sure that she held the tray of food near enough for Hellespont to see and smell it, but not near enough for him to reach it—unless he moved! The enormous hippo strained all his muscles in a supreme effort to do so, for he was really desperate with hunger. But it was no use. His muscles were so covered with fat that he couldn't make them work.

The next day Hellespont tried again to move. He tried and tried. Marilyn kept running up close to him and then, just in time, backing away from his huge, open mouth. This went on all day, and still Hellespont could not budge himself enough to get the food.

The next day the food game began to show some effects on Hellespont. He weighed a few pounds less, but still not enough less to move. It wasn't till a whole week later that Hellespont had really lost weight! He wasn't what you'd call skinny, but he wasn't too terribly fat any more, either . . . and what's more—HE COULD MOVE!! Up he rose onto his weak legs. Slowly, slowly he dragged himself over to the corner of the cage where Marilyn stood tempting him with the tray of food—and at last he reached it! Then, from all around him in their separate cages, there rang out a cheer of applause: "HURRAY! HURRAY FOR HELLESPONT HIPPO!"

Marilyn Monkey joined in the cheers and let Hellespont take a bite or two of the food. Then she sprinted away to let Hellespont chase her. It took a long time, but he finally made it and Marilyn rewarded him with another bite of food. Then she jumped to the opposite end of the cage and repeated the process all over again. By the time the tray of food was gone, Hellespont had had quite a lot of exercise.

Day after day this went on—until one morning everybody took a good long look at Hellespont and realized that he had become a VERY HANDSOME HIPPO! A real credit to the zoo! And what's more he never over-ate again, because by that time he had gotten over the habit of eating too much food. He could prance about almost as fast as Marilyn Monkey. Well-l-l—maybe not quite . . . but he did wonderfully well for a hippo!
